Commodity ClassicSM

February 26-28

www.commodityclassic.com

The American Soybean Association, National Corn Growers Association, National Association of Wheat Growers and the National Sorghum Producers are pleased to welcome you to Phoenix for the 2015 Commodity Classic, America's largest farmer-led, farmer-focused convention and trade show!

This week we celebrate the 20th Commodity Classic right where it all began back in 1996. You're joining dedicated growers from around the country, their families and industry representatives to take in all that Commodity Classic offers. From the Early Riser Sessions to entertaining evenings, you will be energized and informed while checking out the hottest products and services that make today's farmers the most successful ever.

And you'll be doing it all in a location famous for sunny weather, fascinating history and terrific food.

Here's what you will find this week at Commodity Classic:

- The largest Commodity Classic trade show ever, with acres of displays
- Educational sessions that help you succeed back home on the farm
- Key policymaking sessions for your commodity organization
- A thought-provoking General Session centered on what's important to you
- An Evening of Entertainment to celebrate a great week with friends and family

There's a lot more, too! Take a look at the Schedule of Events for details.

Your 2015 Commodity Classic Grower Committee

Sam Butler (Co-Chair) • Dean Campbell • Ed Erickson, Jr.
Gerry Hayden • Kevin Ross • Bart Schott (Co-Chair)
Wesley Spurlock • Terry Swanson • Erik Younggren

All Commodity Classic events are held at the Phoenix Convention Center North and West Buildings unless otherwise noted.

Opening Reception

Sponsored by Syngenta
5:00 p.m.-7:00 p.m., North Ballroom 120D

This reception is a ticketed event for registered growers, media, commodity organization national and state staff and family members. Find your admission ticket in your badge.

From all of us at Syngenta, we're excited to be here in Phoenix! We are thrilled to kick off Commodity Classic 2015 with a night of fun, food, drinks and friends. While we are enjoying the night, you can also celebrate a milestone with us. Recently, we marked the one-year anniversary of The Good Growth Plan and we would like you to join us in that journey. The Good Growth Plan is our industry's most ambitious sustainability program, and we have dedicated ourselves as a company to six measurable commitments. While you are here at Classic, we will be talking about how we are measuring ways to make crops more efficient, rescuing more farmland, helping biodiversity flourish and workers stay safe, and empowering smallholder farmers. We can't wait to celebrate with you!

Early Riser Marketing Session The Great Grain Market Debate

Sponsored by Corn + Soybean Digest and Farm Futures magazines, Penton Farm Progress and Channel Seed
7:00 a.m.-8:00 a.m., West Building Room 301A

Coffee and breakfast bakeries provided.

Speakers: Edward Usset, Grain Marketing Specialist, Center for Farm Financial Management, University of Minnesota; Bryce Knorr, Senior Grain Market Analyst, Farm Futures magazine; Matt Bennett, Channel Seed Grain Marketing Consultant

Volatility is the new norm – in crop growing extremes, in global grain and energy markets, and in political challenges here and abroad. Margins are shrinking and farmers need to identify and understand the issues that matter most in managing market risk. Ed Usset, Bryce Knorr, and Matt Bennett will present a lively, informative, and valuable debate on grain markets and marketing strategies. Your participation will be encouraged as the presenters explore and debate questions that promise to roil the markets...

- Will the demand for soybeans continue to grow?
- What's the future of ethanol and corn demand?
- Production costs and price trends: Are the good times behind us?
- What does it take to be a good grain marketer?

General Session

Sponsored by Dow AgroSciences

9:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m., North Ballroom 120D

Doors open at 8:30 a.m.

Moderator: Mark Mayfield

Keynote: Tom Vilsack, Secretary of Agriculture

Closing Speaker: Dan Dunn’s PAINTJAM

Farmers blazing a trail to success at Commodity Classic will find much to profit from at this year’s General Sessions, once again hosted by humorist Mark Mayfield, who will welcome presidents of the four major commodity associations to speak about the hot topics and key issues confronting America’s corn, soybean, wheat and sorghum growers. These are ASA President Wade Cowan, NCGA President Chip Bowling, NAWG President Paul Penner and NSP Chairman J.B. Stewart.

2015 will mark the sixth visit from Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack, a former governor of Iowa, who will provide a national leadership perspective on top farm issues. A forceful advocate for our nation’s farmers, Vilsack encourages growers to get active and educate consumers about the importance of American agriculture.

The session concludes with Dan Dunn’s PAINTJAM — an exciting, adrenaline-filled, improvisational and inspirational painting performance you won’t want to miss!

The General Session is where you truly experience the impact and importance of Commodity Classic. Throughout the session, there is a strong sense of camaraderie and common purpose with a powerful combination of inspiration, information and insight.

Who Really Owns the Data?

The Need-to-Know on Farm Data Privacy

Sponsored by Ag Leader Technology

12:30 p.m.-1:30 p.m., West Building Room 101

Speaker: John McGuire, Agronomist, Simplified Technology Services

There has been a lot of buzz recently over precision ag data and its recent integration into the world of cloud computing. This buzz has sparked quite a debate over who really owns this data. Does the grower own this data or is it available to others? It’s critical that growers get those answers before selecting a partner or cloud storage provider. Attend this session to get the need-to-know on farm data privacy from agronomist John McGuire.

Finding CommonGroundSponsored by National Corn Growers Association
12:30 p.m.-1:30 p.m., *West Building Room 102Speakers: CommonGround volunteers Sara Ross, Iowa Grower (corn, soybeans and beef cattle) and Joan Ruskamp, Nebraska Grower (corn, soybeans, alfalfa and cattle)

Today, every media outlet is talking about food safety and food integrity. Yet farmers, the original food source, are most often left out of the conversation. Enter CommonGround, a grassroots movement of farm women who want to foster conversations among all women – on farms and in cities – about today's food supply. Using the power of their personal experiences, farm women from across the U.S. now have the platform, confidence and tools to share their stories and set the record straight through the CommonGround program. This session will review the approach and philosophy of CommonGround. It will also address easy ways you can make sure you are a part of the food and farming conversation. Current volunteers with the program will share their first-hand success stories of talking with consumers. You will also have the opportunity to work in groups and practice answering popular consumer concerns.

Championship Seasons:
Get the Most Out of Your Acres

Sponsored by BASF

12:30 p.m.-1:30 p.m., *West Building Room 106Speakers: Dave Hula, Champion Corn Grower, Virginia; Kip Cullers, Champion Soybean Grower, Missouri

Few growers will ever break the world's record in yield, yet something can be learned from champions. Dave Hula and Kip Cullers have proven that growers can push yields and break world records. Yield contests encourage the development of sustainable new and innovative management practices. While not all practices work on all production acres, key learnings can be applied. Advice from credible sources – especially from fellow growers – can play a key role in your farming decisions. Come listen to high yield growers discuss tactics and techniques they've picked up over the years.

A Farmer's Journey with Unmanned Aerial Vehicles

Sponsored by National Wheat Foundation

1:45 p.m.-2:45 p.m., *West Building Room 101Speaker: Robert Blair, Idaho Wheat Grower and founding member of Empire Unmanned

Robert Blair, a pioneer in the usage of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles in agriculture, will speak on his journey to enhance his production using precision agriculture, starting with using a PDA for simple mapping. That evolved into different types of technology, including Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAVs) in 2006. His presentation will include how UAV technology can enhance profits, personal applications, government policy, and the need for agriculture to help influence FAA rules. You will learn how to use this technology to benefit your individual operations, and learn to become actively involved in establishing viable national policy and regulations for UAVs.

Helping Farmers Take Political Action

Sponsored by National Corn Growers Association

1:45 p.m.-2:45 p.m., *West Building Room 102Speaker: Amy Showalter, Principal, The Showalter Group, Inc.

You need to make your voice heard in the media, state capitol and in Washington to protect your way of life and defend your ability to produce food, feed, fiber and fuel for the world. The public respects the American farmer and trusts farmers over many of the opponents we face. However, agriculture can only use that tremendous advantage if farmers use their voices. Join nationally-renowned grassroots influence expert and author Amy Showalter to be motivated to become involved through a greater understanding on how powerful and important your voice as a farmer is with the media and lawmakers.

Nitrogen Management: A Common Sense Approach

Sponsored by Dow AgroSciences

1:45 p.m.-2:45 p.m., *West Building Room 106Speaker: Dr. Howard Brown, Adjunct Professor, University of Illinois

Dr. Howard Brown will discuss M.O.M., a common sense approach to nitrogen management for growers with a focus on Minimizing environmental impact, Optimizing yield and Maximizing profits through best management practice recommendations. The primary focus will be a discussion on extracting the most return on one of your most valuable inputs, Nitrogen, and how to ensure it stays where it needs to be throughout the growing season.

Tools of the Future

Sponsored by Successful Farming

3:00 p.m.-4:00 p.m., *West Building Room 101Speakers: Laurie Bedord, Advanced Technology Editor, Successful Farming; Bruce Rasa, Founder, TekWear; Kent Cavender-Bares, CEO, Rowbot; Jake Clark, Co-Owner and Co-Founder, Fargo 3D Printing

When it comes to technology, today's luxury is tomorrow's necessity. Farmers need to adapt or get run over. And, technology is changing at a rapid pace. This session will take a look at three areas of technology that have the potential to impact agriculture in the not-so-distant future and why farmers should be taking note.

Topics include:

- 3D Printing – Possible application of the technology in farming from prototypes to parts.
- Robotics – Highlighting the latest technologies being tested with application in crop production.
- Wearable technology – Showcasing the potential for 'hands free' technology in agriculture.

Farmers of the Soil Health Partnership – A Panel to Discuss Soil Health Contributions to Productivity, Profitability, and Sustainability

Sponsored by Soil Health Partnership (SHP)

3:00 p.m.-4:00 p.m., *West Building Room 102Moderator: Dr. Nicholas Goeser, Manager, Soil Health and Sustainability, NCGASpeakers: SHP Demonstration Network Farmers Mark Mueller, Iowa; Chase Brown, Illinois; Brent Bible, Indiana; Brandon Mosely, Indiana

Soil Health Partnership demonstration network farmers will discuss what they've learned, experienced and shared while hosting farmer-to-farmer field days within their communities. The session will begin with a review of the current program goals and first year focus geography and benchmark data collected from Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, Ohio and Wisconsin. This panel boasts a diverse set of agronomic skills and experiences that will help grower attendees around the country improve their operations. They will share their thoughts on soil health, experiences with conservation cropping system practices and give advice to those interested in adopting cover crops, prescription nutrient management and other soil health practices.

Back to the Future-Risk Management

Sponsored by Advance Trading, Inc.

3:00 p.m.-4:00 p.m., *West Building Room 106Speaker: Dave Fogel, Vice President, Advance Trading, Inc.

When corn, soybeans and wheat were trading at historic price levels, astute marketers still found benefits in managing risk. However, even those who chose not to manage risk were still able to sell at very profitable levels. Today, prices unprecedented in the last five years are causing legitimate concern and risk to the grower community, from growers to livestock feeders to the end-user. Back to the Future-Risk Management focuses on why most don't manage price, but more importantly will provide simple solutions to take control of risk and marketing.

Transform® WG Insecticide - Control of Sugarcane Aphid

Sponsored by Dow AgroSciences

12:30 p.m.-1:10 p.m., West Building Room 104

Speakers: Larry Walton, Crop Protection R&D Field Scientist, Dow AgroSciences and David Martin, U.S. Insecticides Product Manager, Dow AgroSciences

Many existing chemistries proved ineffective against sugarcane aphid, yet Transform demonstrated outstanding control and protected many growers' sorghum. This session will focus on Transform's technical attributes, and will include a review of prior year's data in sorghum and best practices to help sorghum growers battle against SCA next year.

Are Fungicides for Disease Control, Crop Enhancement or Both?

Sponsored by Syngenta

12:30 p.m.-1:10 p.m., West Building Room 105

Speaker: Dr. Eric Tedford, Technical Product Lead, Fungicides Syngenta

Solatenol™ fungicide is a new broad-spectrum active ingredient under development by Syngenta, with first product registration expected in 2015. In combination with azoxystrobin and propiconazole, it will be marketed as Trivapro™ fungicide in corn, soybeans and wheat upon registration for disease control, crop enhancement and resistance management.

Extreme Beans: Increasing Yields and Decreasing Costs

Sponsored by United Soybean Board/Soy Checkoff

1:30 p.m.-2:10 p.m., West Building Room 104

Speakers: Seth Naeve, Soybean Agronomist and Associate Professor at the University of Minnesota; Shawn P. Conley, Professor of Agronomy and the State Soybean and Small Grain Specialist at the University of Wisconsin, Madison; Chad Lee, Extension Professor, University of Kentucky; Jeremy Ross, Associate Professor, Extension Soybean Specialist, University of Arkansas Division of Agriculture

The United Soybean Board funded a three-year project to examine ways to increase soybean yields and improve the profitability of farmers. Across the U.S., university agronomists evaluated new soybean products and product combinations designed to push yields higher than ever before on a larger scale. Armed with interesting results, these agronomists will explain what worked best in their research trials.

Data-Enabled Technology: Make it Better, Make it Yours

Sponsored by John Deere

1:30 p.m.-2:10 p.m., West Building Room 105

Speakers: Tyler Hogrefe, Senior Technical Product Manager, John Deere Intelligent Solutions Group and Beverly Flores, Integrated Communications Manager, John Deere Intelligent Solutions Group

As a grower, you aim to raise more than crops. You want to raise productivity and profitability, too. Learn how John Deere technology and tools—like MyJohnDeere Operations Center—can help you manage and analyze data, and improve overall decision-making to improve your operations today and in the future.

Unearthing the Benefits of Neonicotinoids

Sponsored by Growing Matters, a coalition led by Bayer CropScience, Syngenta and

Valent U.S.A. Corporation

3:30 p.m.-4:10 p.m., West Building Room 104

Moderator: Pam Smith, Crops Technology Editor, DTN/Progressive Farmer

Panelists: Pete Nowak, Principal, AgInfomatics, lead researcher on neonicotinoid benefits study; Caydee Savinelli, Ph.D., entomologist and Operation Pollinator & IPM Stewardship lead, Syngenta; Dan Fay, Manager, Technology Operations, Valent U.S.A. Corporation; Iain Kelly, Director, Regulatory Policy & Issue Management, Bayer Crop Science; a Farmer who uses neonicotinoids

Neonicotinoids, the most widely used insecticides, are often the best and sometimes only way to control insect pests, have come under intense scrutiny. This session will cover the comprehensive neonicotinoid benefits study which includes 15 individual reports. The panel will discuss the importance of balancing a pesticide's risks and benefits when reviewing registrations. They will also outline what would happen if neonicotinoids were no longer available.

Learn About New Guidelines to Help Protect Your Farm's Data

Sponsored by American Farm Bureau Federation, American Soybean Association, National Association of Wheat Growers and National Corn Growers Association

3:30 p.m.-4:10 p.m., West Building Room 105

Speakers: Ron Moore, Illinois Soybean Farmer and ASA Secretary; Clint Raine, Public Policy and Regulatory Affairs Manager, National Corn Growers Association; Mary Kay Thatcher, Senior Director of Congressional Relations, American Farm Bureau Federation; David Schemm, Secretary-Treasurer, National Association of Wheat Growers; Paul Schrimpf, Director and Journalist, PrecisionAg Institute

Your farm's data is a valuable asset that can help increase productivity. However, do you know who can access that data, and how it's being used? Leaders from major farm organizations will explain the new Privacy and Security Principles for Farm Data to outline what should be included in any data agreement you sign.

Marty Muenzmaier

Rod Snyder

Stefani Millie Grant

Moderator: Dan Chartier, Vice President, Government Affairs, Corn Refiners Association
Speakers: Don Glenn, Alabama Grower & Stewardship, NCGA, Action Team Chairman; Marty Muenzmaier, Sustainability Director, Corn Milling North America, Cargill Inc.; Rod Snyder, President, Field to Market, The Alliance for Sustainable Agriculture; Stefani Millie Grant, Manager, State Government Relations & External Affairs, Unilever Corporation

This session takes an in-depth look at the current challenges facing growers as they respond to increased pressure to measure sustainability. Concerns over water use and production inputs have increased the importance of programs that collect and report sustainability data from across the agricultural value chain. Ensuring sustainability has created a complex maze for producers, processors and end-users to navigate. To highlight some of these burdens and create standardization across the agricultural industry, the panel will discuss universal solutions such as certifying entire U.S. crops versus individual farm certification.

Your Farm, Your Data, Their Regulations

Sponsored by Agrian, Inc.

8:15 a.m.-9:15 a.m., West Building Room 102

Speakers: Jeff Dearborn, Chief Agronomy Officer, Agrian; Dave Nerpel, Field Data and Technology Manager, Agrian; Joan Vernon, Director of Regulatory Affairs, Agrian

It is easy to get overwhelmed with all of the technology offerings these days. As Ag professionals, you might have a handful of software applications you deal with on a regular basis. What is the best way to store your farm data in a usable format? How do you deal with data from different yield monitors with multiple equipment lines? How can you do all of this and maintain profitability, meet compliance reporting requirements including nutrient management plans, and show stewardship of the land and other resources? This session will cover and answer these questions.

Difficult-to-Control Weeds and Herbicide Development

Sponsored by Syngenta

8:15 a.m.-9:15 a.m., West Building Room 105

Speakers: Dr. Ryan Lins, R&D Scientist, Syngenta; Dr. Bryan Young, Associate Professor of Weed Science, Department of Botany and Plant Pathology, Purdue University

Research shows that infestations of tough broadleaf weeds in corn are up by 50 percent in the last four years and farmer expenses to control these weeds have increased by 62 percent over the same period of time. Weeds like Palmer amaranth continue appearing in areas where we haven't seen them before – and they've become more difficult to control with existing herbicides. This session will explore best practices for managing against herbicide resistance and how herbicide development is changing to meet this need. It will also share some of the newest tools available and in the pipeline for weed control.

Craig Morgan was born in tiny Kingston Springs, Tennessee, the son of a bass-playing father whose work gave him behind-the-scenes views of classic country stars like Vern Gosdin, George Jones and Tammy Wynette, among many others. At ten, he sang the national anthem during a school field trip to Nashville in front of a crowd that included Minnie Pearl--who told him, "Son, someday you're gonna be a famous singer."

Morgan proved her right; with a music catalog including working-class anthems like "Redneck Yacht Club," "International Harvester" and "More Trucks Than Cars"; real-life love songs like "Tough" and "This Ole Boy"; and one that hits on pretty much every theme Craig brings to the table--"Little Bit of Life." Then there is "That's What I Love About Sunday," a six-week chart-topper whose love of American life in the biggest and smallest senses made it the most-played song of the year when it came out.

How do we feed a growing world population?

Farm new land

Get more from existing farmland

syngenta[®]

The world needs more food. By 2050, there will be another 2 billion people on our planet. How do we provide enough high-quality food and preserve our environment? At Syngenta, we believe the answer lies in the boundless potential of plants. We develop new, higher yielding seeds and better ways to protect crops from insects, weeds and disease. So farmers can get more from existing farmland and take less new land into cultivation. It's just one way in which we're helping growers around the world to meet the challenge of the future: to grow more from less. To find out more, please visit us at www.growmorefromless.com

Growing a healthier world, one harvest at a time.

Bayer CropScience believes that if you can leave this world a better place than you found it, you've done your job. For more than 150 years, we have dedicated our efforts to delivering innovations that both improve lives and improve the planet. We are focused on creating solutions to the world's agricultural problems, big and small. It's a tall order, but we believe with the right combination of leadership, innovative science and unshakable passion, we can help improve the sustainability of our world today for a better tomorrow.

 BASF
We create chemistry

BASF invites you to a new way of doing agribusiness. It's a bold challenge to the status quo that asks, "What if?" What if we, together, take your vast farming knowledge and experience, and apply the best thinking from our labs and fields to it? What if we build a plan, customized for you, based on objective ideas and innovations to help maximize your success? We call it Grow Smart, and it starts by making a real and honest connection with you. After all, from the products in the lab to the relationships in the field, the right chemistry matters. agproducts.basf.us
